I hope this letter finds you well. My name is Miesha D. Jones, and I am the CEO and Founder of Moments Chapters Motivational Conferences. My journey to creating this platform was not just about business—it was about purpose, healing, and the power of shared experiences.

Moments Chapters was born out of my own pain, resilience, and the deep conversations I've had with women in my salon chair. As a cosmetologist, I realized that my work went far beyond styling hair—I was providing a safe space for women to unload their burdens, share their struggles, and seek encouragement. Time and time again, I witnessed the weight of life's challenges resting on their shoulders, and I knew I wanted to do more than just listen—I wanted to create a space where healing and empowerment could take center stage.

What started as a leap of faith has grown into an annual event dedicated to uplifting and equipping women with the tools they need to move forward. Moments Chapters is a place of transformation, where we break through limiting beliefs, embrace self-growth, and find strength in community.

Now, as we enter our third year, I am more committed than ever to expanding this vision. Each conference is designed with intention, offering resources, inspiring speakers, and practical strategies to help women step into their next chapter with confidence.

I believe we are not placed on this Earth solely for ourselves; we are here to walk in our purpose and impact others. My journey has been one of creating spaces where people feel seen, heard, and empowered to embrace the fullness of who they are.

Thank you for taking the time to hear my story. My hope is that Moments Chapters continues to reach those who need it most—reminding them that they are not alone and that their next chapter is waiting to be written.

Warmest regards,

Miesha D. Jones
